

TRANSFORMATIONS

We welcome all papers from dedicated research students, at the undergraduate and graduate levels. The purpose of this conference is to expose students to presenting successfully early in their careers.

BORDERING GLOBAL AND LOCAL LIVES

Graduate Anthropology Conference

Wayne State's Anthropology program is a multi-field approach to humanity, with the unique aspect of urban work within the Detroit community. Our conference is aimed at connecting people and their research from every corner of the world, including our own. This conference welcomes anthropological research from any discipline and anywhere--highlighting unique methods and finds from our backyard and other exotic locations.

SUBMISSIONS:

Accepted submissions are not limited to urban anthropology; we hope to present a wide variety of topics to espouse the diversity within current anthropological trends. Submissions also do not need to incorporate both aspects of the local and global theme.

Submissions can be made through our Google form

Saturday, March 4th
2017
9 A.M.

This event is free and open to all. Please join us even if you do not wish to present.

Our keynote speaker is Dr. Elizabeth Arnold, Associate Professor of Anthropology at Grand Valley State University.

She is a zooarchaeologist, specializing in stable isotope analysis, and her research has currently taken her to work on a large, multi-disciplinary project in Israel at Tell es-Safi. In addition, she has formulated a study abroad program allowing local students to partake on this exemplary opportunity.
