Holly Wardlow Promoted to Full Professor

Congratulations to Professor Holly Wardlow for her promotion to Full Professor!

Kirsty Duncan, former Anthropology Student, Sworn in as Science Minister

Kirsty Duncan, a medical geographer and former U of T student of Anthropology and Geography, was sworn into the Liberal federal cabinet last week as the new Science minister. After completing her undergraduate degree in the late 1980s, she went on to obtain a PhD in Geography at the University of Edinburgh. Kirsty has represented the riding of Etobicoke North since 2008. Prior to entering politics, she was an Associate Professor of Health Studies at U of T, and the Research Director for the AIC Institute of Corporate Citizenship at Rotman School of Management. U of T News has posted an article about all the U of T Alumni represented in the new federal cabinet here.

Prof. Tania Li Gives Taaffe Colloquium at Ohio State University

The Department of Geography at OSU invited Prof. Tania Li to give the Taaffe Human Geography Colloquium on October 29. Prof. Li spoke on the topic of her latest book, Land's End: Capitalist Relations on an Indigenous Frontier. The lecture has been posted on YouTube at <https://youtu.be/fSqAUz9hY>

Danielle Macdonald Hired as Assistant Professor at the University of Tulsa

Congratulations to PhD Alumna Danielle Macdonald (PhD, U of T, 2013) for her recent hire as an Assistant Professor of Anthropology at the University of Tulsa in Oklahoma. Danielle completed her PhD in 2013 under the supervision of Prof. Michael Chazan. Her research interests include microwear analysis, the Epipalaeolithic, material culture studies, surface metrology, and the chaîne opératoire. She is co-director of the Kharaneh IV excavation project in the Azraq Basin, Jordan, alongside another PhD Alumna, Prof. Lisa Maher (PhD, U of T, 2004).

Anna Kruglova Defends PhD Thesis

Congratulations to Anna Kruglova for successfully defending her PhD thesis on November 6! Anna's thesis title is "Anything Can Happen: Everyday Morality and Social Theory in Russia." Her supervisors are Profs. Michael Lambek and Ivan Kalmar.

Stephen Campbell Takes up Post-Doc at Trent University

Recent PhD graduate Stephen Campbell is now a SSHRC Post-doctoral Fellow at Trent University. His current research focuses on the everyday politics of labour regulation, labour mobility, and labour informalisation along the Thai-Myanmar border. Stephen successfully defended his dissertation on April 8, 2015 under the supervision of Prof. Tania Li. Follow Stephen on academia.edu here.

Call for New Themes at the Jackman Humanities Institute, 2017-2020

The Jackman Humanities Institute (JHI) is calling for suggestions for new annual themes. Each year the Institute organizes many of its activities around a theme. We welcome ideas from the entire university community; the Advisory Board of the JHI then will select annual themes for 2017-2018, 2018-2019, and 2019-2020. Each theme should reach across multiple disciplines and offer foci to leading research in the Humanities. For each theme you propose, please provide a title and 2-3 sentences describing the theme's scope and focus. Multiple suggestions are welcome. Please e-mail your suggestions to humanities@utoronto.ca by 10 December 2015.

Recent Publications

The Real Planet of the Apes: A New Story of Human Origins by David Begun

Prof. David Begun has published a new book that presents startling new insights about our fossil ape ancestors. This accessible book published by Princeton University Press alters our understanding of human origins, claiming that it was in Europe, not Africa, where apes evolved the most important hallmarks of our human lineage – such as dexterous hands and larger brains. The book has been reviewed by The New York Review of Books. Click here to read the full review.

Trevor Orchard Co-Authors Article in BC Studies

PhD Alum and current Laboratory Technician at UTM has co-authored "Zooarchaeological and Isotopic Insights into Locally Variable Subsistence Patterns: A Case Study from Late Holocene Southern Haida Gwaii, British Columbia" with Paul Szpak. The article appears in the Autumn 2015 edition of BC Studies (no. 187: pp. 87-127) and can be read on Trevor's academia.edu website here. Trevor completed his PhD here in 2006 under the supervision of Prof. Gary Coupland.

Recent Publications

Migrant Hearts and the Atlantic Return: Transnationalism and the Roman Catholic Church by Valentina Napolitano

Prof. Valentina Napolitano's new book published by Fordham University Press examines contemporary migration in the context of a Roman Catholic Church eager to both comprehend and act upon the movements of peoples. Combining extensive fieldwork with lay and religious Latin American migrants in Rome and analysis of the Catholic Church's historical desires and anxieties around conversion since the period of colonization, Napolitano sketches the dynamics of a return to a faith's putative center. Check out the book website at <http://migranthearts.com/>.

Peter Bikoulis Co-Authors Book Chapter in Landscape and Settlement Dynamics in Northern Anatolia in the Roman and Byzantine period

Congratulations to Peter Bikoulis for publishing a co-authored book chapter entitled "Above as below: application of multiple survey techniques at a Byzantine Church at Avkat", in "Landscape and Settlement Dynamics in Northern Anatolia in the Roman and Byzantine period", edited by K. Winther-Jacobsen and L. Summerer, Franz Steiner Verlag (a PDF copy can be found on his academia.edu page: <https://utoronto.academia.edu/PeterBikoulis>). Based on his participation with the Avkat Archaeological Project (northern Turkey), it examines whether surface artifacts are good predictors of subsurface features using a combination of pedestrian survey, ground penetrating radar, and spatial statistics.

Edward Swenson Publishes Articles in Cambridge Archaeological Journal and Annual Review of Anthropology

Prof. Edward Swenson has co-written an article with John Warner that appears in the Cambridge Archaeological Journal (DOI: <http://dx.doi.org/10.1017/S0959774315000165>). Landscapes of Mimesis and Convergence in the Southern Jequetepeque Valley, Peru argues that some of the major religious structures of the Late Formative site of Jatanca (500–100 BC) and the Moche ceremonial center of Huaca Colorada (AD 650–850) were built as direct simulators of the coastal massif Cerro Cañoncillo, venerated as a powerful huaca (sacred entity). A comparison of the larger archaeological landscape allows the authors to move beyond generic generalizations of Andean religious architecture as mimetic mountains, demonstrating that attention to the vagaries of ecology and place are essential for the interpretation of historical differences in past religious ideologies.

In The Archaeology of Ritual appearing in The Annual Review of Anthropology (2015, V. 44: 329-345), Swenson considers what archaeology can contribute to general anthropological theories on "ritual in its own right", and highlights the potential for advancing knowledge about ritual experience as a distinctive material process. Read it online here.

Upcoming Conferences & Workshops

A Day with Jack Newman, December 5, 2015, Toronto

The Birth and Beyond Conference & The International Breastfeeding Centre Presents the "On the Road Education Series"

Topics include:

What They Didn't Teach You about Breastfeeding in Your Training -

Observation of video clips and discussion of what they mean. A good general breastfeeding chat with Dr. Jack Newman.

Norms for the Breastfeeding Baby - Deals with weight gain, stools, urine output, jaundice and hypoglycemia and other issues. An essential talk, as we need to move away from imposing numbers on breastfeeding. Includes the folly of depending on numbers ("feed every three hours", "10% weight loss", "20 minutes on each side", the use and misuse of growth charts, etc.), norms for the first few days, and norms after the first few days.

Decreased Milk Supply after the First Few Months - Reasons why a baby who previously gained well might start to gain poorly or even if does continue to gain, is fussy at the breast. Approaches to preventing such a situation and approaches treating this situation without undermining the breastfeeding.

Cost: $159.99. Includes continental buffet breakfast, morning and afternoon coffee breaks, and buffet lunch. Further info and registration at <http://vestashop.ca/content/day-jack-newman-toronto-december-5th-2015>

Creative Non-Fiction Writing for Academics workshop, May 9-13, 2016, University of Toronto

This week-long intensive workshop is designed for academic writers who wish to reach a broader public. Participants will learn strategies drawn from creative non-fiction, such as narrative structure, voice, and point of view, and will workshop their own writing. The workshop is convened by Eva-Lynn Jagoe and Elspeth Brown, Associate Professors at the University of Toronto.

Application Process: To apply, please send the following:

- 1) 500 word proposal of what writing you want to do (or are already doing) in this area and why;
- 2) 1-2 page CV.

This workshop is open to research faculty in the humanities disciplines who are affiliated with the University of Toronto or any other university.

Please apply online at

<https://www.humanities.utoronto.ca/funding/id=60>. If you have any questions, please contact the conveners, Professors Eva-Lynn Jagoe [e.jagoe@utoronto.ca] and Elspeth Brown [elspeth.brown@utoronto.ca]. Applications are due no later than January 10, 2016. Applicants will be notified of the outcome by January 30th. This workshop has been generously supported by the Jackman Humanities Institute, University of Toronto. As a result, there is no tuition.

A Symposium on Housing and Harm Reduction, November 27, 2015, Toronto

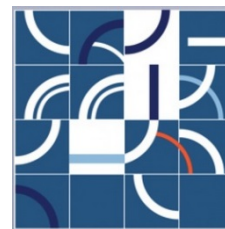

The Canadian Harm Reduction Network and the U of T Service Learning Students present a symposium featuring presentations by student researchers, including:

- existing models of housing and how these can be adapted to serve people who use drugs
- housing for an aging population who use substances
- social enterprise options as part of harm reduction housing

Everyone is welcome, there is no need to register. Friday, November 27, 1:00-5:00pm, Church of the Holy Trinity (Eaton Centre).

Solidarit(i)és: Canadian Anthropology Society & Society for the Anthropology of North America Conference, May 11-15, 2016, Dalhousie University

CASCA's annual conference, co-organized with SANA on the theme Solidarit(i)és, will be held in Halifax, Nova Scotia.

Please see our call for papers at www.cascasana2016.com and stay tuned for the conference registration/submission form, which will be ready soon (<http://cascasana2016.com/registration/>).

Proposal Submissions

CASCA/SANA 2016 invites different types of proposals and strongly encourages panels and symposia that will bring together presenters from a variety of academic and non-academic backgrounds.

Organisers of panels, symposia, or roundtables may wish to advertise their session and find presenters through the CASCA and SANA list-servs. You can email your call for papers to SANA for circulation on their list-serve at: sana.membership@gmail.com and to CASCA for circulation on their list-serve and posting on the Conference Classifieds on the CASCA website at cascanews@casca.ca.

Graduate students

Graduate students returning from the field and/or having collected first-hand research material are invited to apply to the conference. We also welcome in-depth and advanced analytical works by PhD students. Please note that conference papers should not consist of a course-based project, and the conference does not accept panels with only student participants.

Student poster presentations

Undergraduate honours and MA students are encouraged to present a poster summary of their research projects and findings. Abstracts for poster presentations should be up to 100 words. For more information, please write to CascaSana2016@gmail.com.

KEY DATES

Abstract Submission deadline: 5 February, 2016
Paper acceptance notification date: late March, 2016

Awards & Funding Opportunities

Richard Charles Lee Big Ideas Competition

Do you have an idea for a creative, social entrepreneurial, innovative project that takes what you know about contemporary Asia to another level, to solve a problem, spread an idea, or make a difference? We want to hear from you! We're looking for bright, motivated students with ideas for impactful projects with a focus on Asia. Sound vague? That's because the only limit is your imagination. This is a chance to think outside the box, to apply your classroom learning to the real world in a meaningful way. Students will train to win through a series of expert-led workshops between now and April, covering how to come up with a winning idea, writing a successful proposal, the art of the pitch, and idea execution through project management. In April, individuals and teams will pitch their ideas before a jury of faculty members and industry experts, competing for the prize to fund their projects. Undergraduate and graduate students in the Faculty of Arts and Science are eligible. Prizes range from $3000-8000. An orientation session will be held on Friday, November 20 from 12:00-2:00pm at I08N, 1 Devonshire Pl. Register at <http://munkschool.utoronto.ca/ai/event/19379/>

Oxford-Prince's Foundation Scholarship for Part-Time DPhil in Sustainable Urban Development

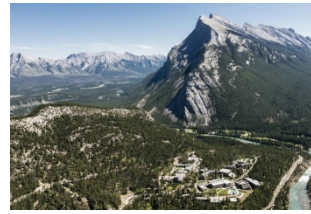

The Department for Continuing Education at the University of Oxford is pleased to invite applications for a fully-funded scholarship to undertake the part-time Doctor of Philosophy \(DPhil\) in Sustainable Urban Development

The successful applicant will undertake research on the economic impact, broadly considered, of the Coed Darcy oil refinery conversion project and the associated Swansea University Bay Campus development. Potential research themes include: economic sustainability of brownfield redevelopment projects; economic sustainability assessment methodologies; urban design and economic sustainability; sustainable regional development; R&D and growth poles; regeneration of economically vulnerable regions; green growth strategies and shrinking regions; institutional factors in sustainable economic competitiveness; corporate social responsibility and urban sustainability; or any other theme(s) of the candidate's choosing. Further details regarding the scholarship, including a background to the project and eligibility, can be found on the DPhil website www.conted.ox.ac.uk/dsud/.

Scholarship application deadline: 22 January 2016. To find out more about the DPhil and how to apply please visit www.conted.ox.ac.uk/dsud/ or get in touch via sud@conted.ox.ac.uk or +44 (0)1865 286953.

Linda S. Cordell Prize

Nominations are being sought for the $5,000 Linda S. Cordell Prize, recognizing innovative books in archaeology or anthropological archaeology that best exemplify excellence in writing, significantly advance archaeological method, theory, or interpretation, and inform other subfields of anthropology or related disciplines. Deadline for the 2017 prize is January 15, 2016. Go to sarweb.org for more information on this program, including eligibility criteria and nomination guidelines.

Call for Applications “On Energy”, Research Residency Program, Banff Research in Culture, May 30-June 24, 2016

“On Energy” invites participants in the fields of visual art, architecture,

design, literature, humanities, social sciences, and physical sciences to consider energy; its conceptual, corporal, and cultural development since its thermodynamic invention, and the sort of materialism that can emerge when energy is redefined in a postindustrial capitalist society. This residency asks artists and researchers to collectively address energy's historical figures and futures, its visual and social economy, and its capacity to disfigure, since energy is not a thing, but rather a representation of the force embedded in matter and the relations between materials.

Banff Research in Culture (BRiC) is a research residency program designed for scholars engaged in advanced theoretical research on themes and topics in culture. BRiC is designed to offer researchers with similar interests from different disciplinary and professional backgrounds an opportunity to exchange opinions and ideas. Participants are encouraged to develop new research, artistic, editorial, and authorial projects, both individually and in connection with others.

During the residency, participants will attend lectures, seminars, and workshops offered by visiting faculty. The residency will help to develop new approaches toward the study and analysis of culture, as well as creating lasting networks of scholars who might use this opportunity as the basis for future collaborative work. This program is open to current PhD researchers and post-doctoral researchers (faculty up to tenure) beginning their careers.

Application Deadline: December 16, 2015

<https://www.banffcentre.ca/programs/banff-research-culture-energy>

Scholarships Available for MA Study at the Sainsbury Research Unit

Sainsbury Research Unit
for the Arts of Africa,
Oceania & the Americas

The Sainsbury Research Unit for the Arts of Africa, Oceania and the Americas (SRU) is offering four scholarships for students enrolled in our dis"nc"ve MA course (2016/17). Study is highly flexible, can be tailored to students interests, and combines art-historical, anthropological, archaeological and museological approaches, as well as study visits to UK and European museums. Volunteering & Graduate Programs

Dept. of Sociology & Social Anthropology, Dalhousie University

We have three main research concentrations in Critical Health Studies; Economy, Work, and Development; and Social Justice and Inequality. We draw on the strengths of our two disciplines, sociology and social anthropology, by recognizing their distinct intellectual and methodological heritages. We have a vibrant and active department that is large enough to offer four graduate degrees --an MA and a PhD in each discipline-- and small enough to provide students with a high level of interaction and mentorship from faculty. Our deadline for application to the program is January 15, 2016. Details about the programs and application process can be found on our website here.

The Centre for Theory and Criticism, Western University
Research at the Centre for Theory and Criticism focuses on work that involves deconstruction, post-structuralism, Marxism and social/cultural theory, gender theory, media studies, continental philosophy and the history of thought. We are also interested in how knowledge is organised, the emergence of disciplines and fields, and questions that arise at the borders between disciplines and discourses. We encourage theses that are epistemically experimental. An unusual feature of our MA programme is that it is a two-year, thesis-based programme. As well as having its own PhD programme, the Centre provides students who are thinking of doing a PhD with a strong and versatile preparation for work in a traditional discipline. Application deadline is January 15, 2016. Further info at <http://uwo.ca/theory/>

Operation Groundswell – Backpacking with a Purpose

Operation Groundswell is a non-profit organization that runs international volunteering programs, focusing on social justice issues and working alongside local activists, organizations, and communities. We are looking for globally conscious and socially active students who want to spend their summer exploring some of the most complex and beautiful countries in the world! If you're into cultural exchange, meaningful community service, and off-the-beaten path adventure, apply by December 17th to secure an interview for your first-choice program! Financial assistance is available for all students on five- and six-week programs. Click here to find out where we go.

Queen's Graduate Program in Cultural Studies

Cultural Studies at Queens is a unique graduate program that integrates the range of theoretical and practical approaches used within Cultural Studies and fosters scholarship in both historical and contemporary fields of research. The program creates an intellectual environment that combines a high level of academic scholarship and an ongoing meaningful engagement with cultural and social issues relevant to local and global communities. Application deadline: 31 January 2016. For more information, please consult the website <http://www.queensu.ca/culturalstudies>
