I welcome you all to a new academic year in the department. As I am just returning from a year of sabbatical and a field season in Jordan, it seems to me a particularly fresh beginning. I thank Dan Sellen and Tania Li for filling in for me as Acting Chairs while I was in Jordan, and especially to Joshua Barker for fulfilling that role so effectively all of last year. I was very confident that the department was in good hands. I gather other members of the department also had busy and productive summers. Max Friesen, for example, is to be congratulated on his recent discovery of a complete Inuvialuit driftwood house being so much in the news.

Now we begin a year that is exceptional in a number of ways, but most notably in the growth of our graduate program. This year our cohort of newly admitted graduate students, and especially Masters, is bigger than ever before. It's so big in fact that we need to mount separate orientation sessions for Masters and PhD students. Running so large a program will present some new challenges, but also opportunities as the breadth of student research in the department grows and presents new possibilities for interaction and reflection.

It will also be a busy year for searches for new faculty on all three campuses. At the St. George campus, we have a search for an assistant professor in biological anthropology. Anthropology at UTM is searching for an assistant professor in the biological anthropology of health, and Anthropology at UTSC is searching for an assistant professor in behavioural primatology. I encourage faculty, students and alumni to contribute to the hiring process in these searches. Some of you will be deeply involved as members of the search committees, but all of you can do your part by attending the job talks and contributing comments on the short-listed candidates. There are few things more important than selecting our future colleagues and teachers.

This is also a time to welcome new colleagues already selected in previous searches. Liye Xie joins us as assistant professor at UTM. Prof. Xie specializes in Chinese archaeology, including studies of prehistoric agriculture and land use - helping to round out our coverage of Old World prehistory while also complementing the research programmes of several existing faculty, including Gary Crawford, Dave Smith and myself, who have research interests in early food-producing societies.

We have a busy colloquium schedule with Dr. Melinda A. Zeder kicking things off tomorrow 2-4. She will be discussing New Perspectives on Agricultural Origins in the Near East. We also have a four-field professionalization workshop tomorrow morning, and several other upcoming events including the AGSU Wine & Cheese on Friday, September 19 from 4-6pm in Croft Chapter House. Overall, it looks to be an exciting year! Be sure to check this space regularly for updates, as well as our new website and social media pages (click on the icons to the left.)

News & Announcements

Prof. Max Friesen Discovers Complete Inuvialuit Driftwood House

Prof. Max Friesen is celebrating a discovery he made this summer at the Kuukpak archeological site in the Northwest Territories: the first example of a complete Inuvialuit driftwood house. Houses like this were made anywhere from 500 years ago up until about 1900. The home that slightly resembles a crucifix was preserved in permafrost when it was abandoned, giving it the appearance like it “just drifted in this morning,” Friesen told the CBC. He added: “It was almost the capping of my career.” Click here to read the full CBC story from August 27.

Prof. Daswani, Muehlebach and Satsuka Awarded Tenure

Congratulations to our new Associate Professors, Girish Daswani, Andrea Muehlebach, and Shiho Satsuka. All received official notification of successful tenure reviews over the summer.

Omri Grinberg Awarded Vanier

Congratulations to PhD Student Omri Grinberg, recipient of the Vanier Canada Graduate Scholarship! The tentative title of Omri's SSHRC research project is Holding the Stick from the Middle - an Ethnography of Palestinians Employed as Fieldworkers by Israeli Human Rights NGO's. The department is absolutely thrilled to have a Vanier Scholar in our midst! Further info on the Vanier Scholarships can be found at www.vanier.gc.ca.

PhD Candidate Mathew Gagné Receives Payne Paper Prize

Congratulations to Mathew Gagné for being awarded honorable mention for the 2014 Kenneth W. Payne Student Prize. The Payne Prize is presented each year by the Association for Queer Anthropology (AQA) of the American Anthropological Association to a graduate or undergraduate student in acknowledgment of outstanding anthropological work on 1) a lesbian, gay, bisexual or transgendered topic, or 2) a critical interrogation of sexualities and genders more broadly defined. Mathew's paper Between Fantasy and Real: Gay Dating Technologies, Affect, and Queer Relations in Beirut is based on his ethnographic fieldwork on gay dating technologies among queer men in Beirut. The paper goes beyond expressions of ineffable sexual desires online, and explores “how sex, sociality, affect, the politics of place, and technology interact to create queer emergences” (Gagné 2013:3).

Reminder to Grad Students re: Office Space

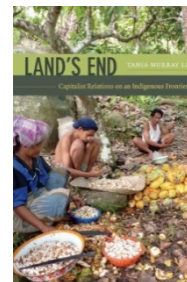

This is a friendly reminder that all students who were not assigned office space for the 2014/2015 academic year were to have removed their belongings no later than August 31st. If you still have personal belongings in your old office space, please remove them as soon as possible in order to allow the new occupants to make use of the space.

Many thanks for your assistance in this regard,
Mike O'Rourke
AGSU Office Space Coordinator

Land's End: Capitalist Relations on an Indigenous Frontier by Prof. Tania Li

Drawing on two decades of ethnographic research in Sulawesi, Indonesia, Prof. Tania Li's latest book offers an intimate account of the emergence of capitalist relations among indigenous highlanders who privatized their common land to plant a boom crop, cacao. Listen to interview podcasts, watch the visual tour, and more from Prof. Li's book website.

Alumna Laura Bolt Publishes Paper in Folia Primatologica

PhD graduate Laura Bolt has authored a paper titled “Male-specific use of the purr in the ring-tailed lemur (Lemur catta),” published in the online issue of Folia Primatologica. Although mammals usually purr in affiliative contexts, such as grooming and nursing, this paper presents evidence that ring-tailed lemur males purr primarily in an unexpected context: during male-male agonism, such as fights. Laura was co-supervised by Profs. Joyce Parga and Shawn Lehman. Her full article can be read online

Prof. Shiho Satsuka Publishes Article in The Political Economy of Affect and Emotion in East Asia

Prof. Shiho Satsuka has published a chapter on “Hospitality and Detachment: Japanese Tour Guides' Affective Labor in Canada” in The Political Economy of Affect and Emotion in East Asia (2014, Routledge). The book is edited by Jie Yang, U of T Anthropology Alumni and currently Associate Professor of Anthropology at Simon Fraser University. Jie Yang completed her PhD with us in 2006 under the supervision of Prof. Hy Van Luong.

Prof. Katie Kilroy-Marac has an article appearing in the September 2014 edition of Culture, Medicine, and Psychiatry. Titled “Of Shifting Economies and Making Ends Meet: The Changing Role of the Accompagnant at the Fann Psychiatric Clinic in Dakar, Senegal”, the article abstract can be viewed here and will appear in print in Vol. 38, Issue 3, pp. 427-447.

Prof. Naisargi Dave has published an article entitled “Witness: Humans, Animals, and the Politics of Becoming” in the recent edition of Cultural Anthropology (Vol. 29, No. 3: pp. 433-356.) Alumna Jayne Wilkins Co-Authors Paper in PLoS ONE

Jayne Wilkins, who completed her PhD in 2012 under the supervision of Prof. Michael Chazan, has co-authored “An Experimental Investigation of the Functional Hypothesis and Evolutionary Advantage of Stone-Tipped Spears” with B.J. Schoville and K.S. Brown. The article appears in PLoS ONE 9(8) and is available on Jayne’s academia.edu profile here. Jayne is currently a postdoctoral fellow at Arizona State University in the School of Human Evolution and Social Change.

Prof. Krista Maxwell Publishes Article in Transcultural Psychiatry

Prof. Krista Maxwell published an article that appeared in the June 2014 edition of Transcultural Psychiatry Vol. 51(3): 406-434. Titled “Historicizing Historical Trauma Theory, Troubling the Trans-Generational Transmission Paradigm”, the abstract and full article can be read here or on Prof. Maxwell’s academia.edu profile.

Intellectuals and (Counter-) Politics: Essays in Historical Realism by Prof. Emeritus Gavin Smith

Intellectuals and \(Counter-\) Politics proposes a research agenda designed from the outset to maximize the political leverage of ordinary people faced with ever more remote states and the technologies that make capitalism increasingly rapacious. Such an agenda, Smith argues, obliges us to re-think our methods and conceptual tools. Click here for further info.

SUNTA Undergraduate Paper Prize

The Society for Urban, National and Transnational/Global Anthropology is pleased to announce its undergraduate paper prize competition. We are seeking nominations - by faculty - of student papers that address SUNTA's interests, including transnational social processes, impacts of globalization, refugees and immigrants, urban life, space and place, and poverty and homelessness. The prize includes a cash award of $150. The winner will be announced at the 2014 AAA meetings in Washington, D.C.

Papers should be submitted by email to Ellen Moodie at emoodie@illinois.edu by September 20, 2014. Any author who is a current undergraduate or who graduated in the 2014 calendar year is eligible for the competition, as long as the submission was composed while s/he was an undergraduate. Although submissions will be accepted from faculty only (students may not submit papers on their own), faculty need not write in support: a nomination is sufficient - letters of recommendation/justification not required. International entries are encouraged. SUNTA membership is not required.

Papers should be no more than 30 double-spaced pages, 12-point font, including bibliography, notes and images/figures. The paper's formatting (e.g., citations, bibliographies etc.) should be consistent throughout. Send queries to Ellen Moodie (emoodie@illinois.edu).

African Zoonosis Doctoral Scholarship Available, African Studies, University of Edinburgh

We are recruiting to a fully ESRC funded doctoral studentship to examine social, political and economic dimensions of neglected tropical diseases in Africa (January 2015 start). We are primarily interested in someone who wishes to focus on African trypanosomiasis or Ebola, but will consider other diseases or topics.

We anticipate that successful applicants will already hold a masters degree in an appropriate area of study (global health, medical anthropology, development studies or a cognate discipline). These studentships are available to UK citizens or EU citizens who are ordinarily resident in the UK.

To be considered please submit an academic cv, a short 500 word statement outlining your preliminary research idea, research questions and methods, and a cover letter explaining your suitability and interest to: james.smith@ed.ac.uk by Friday 17 October 2014. If you have any queries you can contact Professor James Smith at the same email address.

SANA St. Clair Drake Student Travel Grant for 2014 AAA Conference

The Society for the Anthropology of North America announces the St. Clair Drake Student Travel Grant for travel to the 2014 AAA conference, titled "Producing Anthropology" on December 3rd-7th in Washington, D.C. The committee will distribute up to four grants of $500 each. To apply, submit your paper abstract, university affiliation, and contact information in the body of an email to sanatravelgrant@yahoo.com by September 30, 2014. Please indicate whether you are in an M.A. or Ph.D. program. No additional materials are needed.

Applicants must be SANA members. The membership fee is only $10 for students - please see <http://sananet.org/about.php> for instructions on how to join.

- The student travel grant is awarded on a competitive basis and reviewed by a committee comprised of members from the SANA board. This travel grant is intended for currently enrolled graduate students without a PhD. Only students who are presenting papers at the conference will be considered for the grant.
- A total of 4 awards will be made: 2 awards will be given to Ph.D. students; 2 awards will be given to M.A. students.
- Papers should relate to the study of North America and – in keeping with the work of the grant's namesake, St. Clair Drake – preferably consider the politics of everyday life in North America such as those pertaining to race, ethnicity, class, gender, and/or sexuality. Priority will be given to those that address Mexico, the United States, and Canada.
- Preference will go to those students who have previously applied for the SANA travel grant and have not yet received one.
- The total dollar amount allocated to travel grants is limited; therefore, the number and dollar amount of grants awarded depends on the number of applicants and their travel needs.
- Travel grants will not be awarded to any individual two years in a row.
- SANA is an intentionally inclusive community of anthropologists and encourages every student to apply for the St. Clair Drake grant regardless of society's labels or anthropology's disciplinary boundaries. However, applicants must be SANA members presenting at the 2014 AAA meeting.
