News & Announcement

Prof. Tania Li Named Royal Society Fellow
Congratulations to Prof. Tania Li for her recent induction as a new Fellow of the Royal Society of Canada. Prof. Li is among 14 other University of Toronto faculty to be inducted to the RSC this year, for a total of 87 new fellows. The RSC is a senior Canadian collegium of distinguished scholars, artists and scientists. Learn more here.

Anthropology Alumni Author
Groundbreaking Research on Homo naledi
PhD Alumni Tracy Kivell and Andrew Deane, along with BSc alumna Mana Dembo, are among the authors of an eLife Digest publication on the discovery of Homo naledi, a previously-unknown species of extinct hominin discovered within the Dinaledi Chamber of the Rising Star cave system in South Africa. It is the largest assemblage of a single species of hominins yet discovered in Africa, and is attracting broad media attention for changing our understanding of our human ancestors. Read the BBC article here; or the National Geographic article here; or read the groundbreaking research published by eLife here.

Call for Papers - On the Immanence and Imminence of the Ethical: Anthropological Reflections on Ethical Time and Presence, January 2016, Centre for Ethnography, UTSC

Prof. Silcox, Schillaci, and PhD student Sergi López-Torres
Develop New Model to Re-Examine Interpretation of Darwinius
A famous fossil of an early primate has more in common with modern lemurs than researchers previously thought based on how its teeth erupted, University of Toronto researchers say. PhD student Sergi López-Torres and Associate Professors Mary Silcox and Michael Schillaci of U of T Scarborough developed a new model that re-examines the interpretation of Darwinius, the best preserved fossil primate known to exist. Recent Publications

Introduction to Evolutionary Anthropology by Prof. Shawn Lehman

Pearson Custom Publishing has released the second edition of Prof. Lehman’s Introduction to Evolutionary Anthropology. The first edition was published in 2010 by Pearson. Prof. Lehman is also set to release a co-edited book in 2016 entitled The Dwarf and Mouse Lemurs of Madagascar (2016, Cambridge University Press), which can be preordered here. This article appears in Anthropology Newsletter – Volume 15, Issue 2.

Is there hope for an Anthropocene Anthropology? by Prof. Todd Sanders and Elizabeth F. Hall

Appearing in Anthropologies 21, a journal hosted by Savage Minds, this article is part 4 of a 6 part series exploring anthropology’s engagement with climate change. Read it online at http://savageminds.org/2015/09/05/anthropologies-21-is-there-hope-for-an-anthropocene-anthropology/.

PhD Candidate Behzad Sarmadi Writes Article for Tirgan Magazine

PhD Candidate Behzad Sarmadi has posted an article on Culture on his Academia.edu page, which originally appeared in the 2015 issue of Tirgan Magazine, the official publication of the biannual Tirgan Festival (the largest celebration of Iranian arts and culture outside Iran.) You can read his piece on Culture online at https://www.academia.edu/15367436/Keywords_Culture.

Evaluating the impact of Black Sea flooding on the Neolithic of northern Turkey by Peter Bikoulis

This article appears in World Archaeology 47 (5): XX-XX. DOI: 10.1080/00438243.2015.1078740. PhD student Peter Bikoulis presented the paper the article is based on in Istanbul, Turkey, at the 20th Annual Meeting of the European Association of Archaeologists (EAA) last September, with the help of department funds. The article demonstrates how spatial modelling along the Turkish coast suggest that environmental and social factors besides the Black Sea flood Hypothesis must be explored in order to explain the lack of early Holocene sites across the region. The Materialities of Place Making in the Ancient Andes: a Critical Appraisal of the Ontological Turn in Archaeological Interpretation by Prof. Edward Swenson

Prof. Ed Swenson has published an article in this month’s Journal of Archaeological Method and Theory 22(3): 677-712 that offers a critical appraisal of the ontological turn in archaeological research, especially approaches that draw inspiration from nonrepresentational and non-anthropocentric theories. By comparing the Late Formatative center of Jatanca (300–100 BCE) with the neighboring Moche site of Huaca Colorada (AD 650–850) in the Jequetepeque Valley of Peru, Prof. Swenson argues that a focus on the materialities of place making, as opposed to generic interpretations of ontology, permits a more effective means of reconstructing historical process within the specific Andean context. Click here to download the full article.

PhD Candidate Sandra Romain Co-Authors Article in Journal of Pharmaceutical Policy and Practice

Sandra Romain, PhD Candidate in Medical Anthropology, is the lead author on “Policy versus practice: a community-based qualitative study of the realities of pharmacy services in Nunavut, Canada”, co-written by Jillian C. Kohler and Kay Young. This research examines how existing pharmaceutical administration and distribution policies and practices in Nunavut impact patient care. Read the article online here.

Local Clay Sources as Histories of Human–Landscape Interactions: a Ceramic Taskscape Perspective by Kostalena Michelaki, Gregory V. Braun, and Ronald G. V. Hancock

PhD student Gregory Braun has co-authored an article in the Journal of Archaeological Method and Theory 22(3):783-827 which argues that pot-making should be considered in its broader landscape to reveal not only its articulation with the many other quotidian tasks undertaken by a community, but also how ancient people oriented themselves in that landscape. Recent Publications by Dr. Carolyn Barshay-Szmidth

Dr. Carolyn Barshay-Szmidth (Archaeology Centre Research Associate; former Hunt and SSHRC Post-Doctoral Fellow in the Dept.) and her husband Ben welcomed their second daughter, Cora, in August 2014, and Elizabeth F. Hall.

Carolyn has a number of papers with colleagues on the Magdalenian of SW/Pyrenean France as part of the MAGDATIS project this past year. In one they argue for pushing back the earliest Magdalenian occupation in the lower Pyrenees by a few thousand years. Another addresses the issue of old excavations and how to ensure that their archaeostratigraphy is correct (especially important when one wants to select appropriate samples for dating). She has also worked on the Mousterian of SE France, with a paper recently published in Quaternary International on the feasibility of assessing the relationship between climatic change and behaviour in karstic contexts. Abstracts and papers are available at https://upenn.academia.edu/CarolynBarshaySzmidth.

REINVENT: Conference on Neglected Diseases, October 2, 2015, U of T
Calling all students and professionals interested in social justice, global health, medical anthropology, history, political science, international development, public health, and beyond…

REINVENT is a CIHR-funded interdisciplinary conference that will push participants to develop a deeper understanding “neglect” and how systemic inequities allow its proliferation. At this conference participants critically analyze neglected diseases by recognizing the role of power and resources as the strongest determinants of health and disease. This conference aims to reinvent the way we think about neglected diseases.

To find out more, visit our webpage: http://www.reinventconference.ca and Follow us on Twitter: @REINVENT2015. Registration is now open. If you have any questions or would like to get involved with REINVENT, contact us at info@reinventconference.ca.

The relationship between images and ethnography in contemporary practices and discourses beyond (visual) anthropology, October 14, 2015, Amphithéâtre François Furet, Paris
This workshop will be held from 9am to 5pm at the Amphithéâtre François Furet, EHESS, 105 Boulevard Raspail, 75006 Paris. A selection of young scholars coming from different disciplines will present their work. Two discussants, Aline Caillet (Université Paris I Sorbonne) and Damien Motrier (Université Paris X Nanterre), will comment on the papers and contribute to the overall discussion. The workshop will be part of the Rencontres Annuelles d’Ethnographie de l’EHESS and it will run in both French and English (with an interpreter helping those who struggle with French). The workshop (and the overall conference) is open to the public. Further details here.

Call for Applications, GISME Junior Faculty Manuscript Workshop, Spring 2016, Georgetown University
The Georgetown Institute for the Study of Markets and Ethics (GISME) invites applications for the 2015 Junior Faculty Manuscript Workshop. The aim of the workshop is to provide critical feedback to junior scholars (i.e., junior faculty members, postdocs, or non-tenure-track professors) who are working on book-length manuscripts that address important normative issues related to the functioning of contemporary market societies. A limited number of applicants will be invited to Washington in the Spring 2016 semester for a day-long workshop devoted to their manuscript and will work with GISME to identify 2-4 senior scholars to act as discussants.

Each workshop will consist of several sessions dedicated to discussion of the author’s manuscript. Sessions will begin with a critical commentary on a section of the manuscript by an invited participant. The author will then have the chance to respond and subsequently open up the floor for further commentary and discussion. The format is designed to maximize feedback for the author.

Applications are due by November 15 and selected manuscripts will be notified no later than January 15. Further info here.

Sexuality and Aging Strategies for Supporting Healthy Sexuality, An Online Workshop for Healthcare Professionals & Policymakers, October 5-November 1, 2015
ONLINE weekly at your discretion
Cost: $240 (Seniors/Students $120) Registration Deadline: Sept 25th, 2015
This workshop will only be offered if there is sufficient enrolment.

Course Objectives:
• Challenge the commonly held and flawed belief that sex is only for the young
• Gain a better understanding of the physiological changes that affect a person’s sexual health as they age.
• Participants will learn to address the clinical issues that may arise for older adults related to their sexual health.
• Participants will increase their comfort level in addressing issues related to the sexual health of their clients, patients, or residents.

Call for Got Anthropology? Speakers 2015-2016

We have received some great proposals so far, but it is not too late to submit your ideas for the 2015-2016 talk series! As attendees of our past events know, this speaker series is different in that it is not about explaining your own research, but rather it is about developing and delivering a presentation on something that people outside the discipline can get excited about. It is about engaging with our community in an academically responsible way. It is about asking and answering bigger questions.

We are seeking six graduate student speakers by Friday, September 25 (5 pm). If you are interested in applying, please send an email to AnthroSpeakersSeries@gmail.com with the following information included:

* Curriculum vitae (CV)
* Proposed talk title
* A bulleted list of the three main "take home messages" you aim to impart to the audience

We also ask that you please note if there is a month you will be unavailable to give a talk. We plan to hold the one-hour talks on the second last Wednesday of each month, with a practice talk scheduled for two weeks prior to the main event.

Speakers will be chosen by a graduate student volunteer committee, and will be notified by the end of September. Thank you in advance for your interest!

2015 Student Paper Prize in the Anthropology of Religion
The Society for the Anthropology of Religion invites submissions for its third annual student paper prize in the anthropology of religion. The student paper prize is aimed towards recognizing and encouraging the writing by students of compelling ethnographies on religion. This prize is intended to foster theoretically significant, ethnographically rich, and publicly-oriented work by scholars at an early stage in their career.

Any paper written by a current graduate student involving the anthropology of religion is eligible. (Co-authored papers are not eligible for this prize.) We particularly encourage papers that were prepared for the 2015 Biennial Meeting of the Society for the Anthropology of Religion in San Diego, or for the 2015 meeting of the American Anthropological Association in Denver.

The prize will be awarded at SAR’s Business Meeting at the American Anthropological Association Annual Meeting in November 2015. The winner will receive a certificate and a $250 cash prize. The deadline for submissions is September 30, 2015.

Please send your submission to Jessica Mason, Chair of the Student Paper Prize Committee, at jfmason@gmail.com.

Eleanor “Happy” Leacock Travel Grant
Building on SANA’s history of support for those whose work and/or identities places them outside the disciplinary mainstream, this prize provides support for conference travel for the rapidly increasing number of scholars who labor in positions outside the tenure-track system.

Submissions should relate to the study of North America and, in keeping with Leacock’s contributions to feminist, urban, and activist anthropology, address issues of inequality based on gender, race, class, ethnicity, and/or sexuality. Application deadline is November 1, 2015. Further info at http://www.sananet.org/travel-grants/

Mitacs Elevate Postdoctoral Funding
Mitacs Elevate is now accepting applications for two-year postdoctoral funding:

- $55,000 annual award (plus $7,500 per year non-cash value in training)
- Customized training exclusive to Elevate fellows
- Long-term research project with a non-academic partner

Deadlines:
- Letter of intent: October 7, 2015, at 5 p.m. PDT
- Application: October 28, 2015, at 1 p.m. PDT
- Results announced: February 2016
- Projects must start by May 2, 2016

Off The Beaten Track Call for Scholarship Proposals
This call is aimed at budding researchers with creative and open minds towards the challenges of applied research. We offer a unique learning opportunity in a multidisciplinary research project on the isle of Gozo, Malta. Expeditions and the University of Leuven offer 9 scholarships to cover part or all of the tuition fee for the 2016 Malta Summer School. Scholarships are granted on a competitive basis, based on a research proposal.

Eligible candidates
- Undergraduate and graduate students
- Everyone with a genuine interest in anthropology
- Previous participants of the project

Selection is NOT based on academic merit, originality or complexity. We aim for enthusiasm, dedication and creativity. In the past years even students who were not enrolled in an anthropology program received scholarships for the project.

Selection Procedure
Candidates are invited to propose two or more creative research concepts that can be performed during the summer school on Gozo (Malta).

From these proposals, the academic board of Expeditions will select 15 candidates to work out a more detailed research plan within a deadline of two months (January/February). The three best research proposals will each be granted a full scholarship. The next six runners-up will be granted scholarships of 1,600.00€ (about 50% of the total tuition) which will be deducted from their tuition fee.

How to apply?
- Send us 2 or more research concepts (but at least two!).
- 150-250 words per research concept.
- Submitting can only be done through the form on our website.
- The deadline for submissions is January 5th, 2016.

Please note that the number of students accepted in the program is limited. Scholarships will be granted only after the completion of the selection procedure, while registration is open to non-scholarship participants. In case you wish to join the project even if you do not receive a scholarship, we advise to register through the regular procedure as early as possible since non-scholarship slots are usually filled by the end of December.
